

Adelaide Alsop Robineau: Glory in Porcelain

Adelaide Alsop Robineau, Glory in Porcelain, has become a coveted mainstay for scholars of Robineau's work and twentieth-century ceramics. With images of roughly a hundred works, only an artist offers a look at the famed Everson collection, as well as pieces from museums around the country, including the Detroit Institute of Arts; Metropolitan Museum of Art; Newark Museum of Art, Ohio State University; the Palmer Museum of Art, Pennsylvania State University. Curator Thomas, Jr., brings to light the seldom addressed last decade of the artist's life. While other guest scholars offer an analysis of Robineau's influence and legacy, including her role as educator and placing work of historic ceramics and the international art movement of early twentieth-century design.
