

Amaranth-Sage Epiphanies of Dusk-Weaving Paradise. 2nd ed.

Hugo Walters poems stand alone among poetry. Typical of his poems (though not exclusive to Walter himself) are the vibrant splashes of color, the driving meters, and the whirlpool of lush images. Walter has invented a new style of poetry all his own. This is poetry that knows its own vocabulary, works its own grammar, and has its own idea of syntax. The purpose of this new language is to explore new frontiers of understanding: with his trademark style of hyphenating odd couples of beauty, Walter combines sensual visual images with concepts and interpolates references to antiquity from all ages and all human cultures, putting layer upon layer of thought and feeling, juxtaposing nature with art, music with base nouns.
