

Black Lace: An Anthology Of Victorian Seduction

The Dukes Virgin Bride :Cynthia has spent the last month as the new Duchess of Chentry; bride to the devilishly handsome rouge Sir Charles Elroy Debracy the Fifth Duke of Chentry known for his skillful talent between the sheets yet Cynthia remains his Virgin Bride? Locked away with only her books and her thoughts to keep her company Cynthia sees no escape from her pain, but her path is highlighted with inspiration. Night after painfully, unfulfilled night Charles has been tortured with need for his bride. Reminding himself day after day of the fear gutting him, that should he reveal his own dark sexual needs to his new bride he could loose her forever. For the last month he never saw much hope for him until a dripping candle helped light the way. Her Quiet Barron: Tormented by the cruel gossiping hens of Victorian society, Sophia is desperate for her betrothed Sir Ricardo Hastings Baronet to display some sign of affection toward her before they wed in two weeks time. Handsome and exotic, her husband to be has kept himself removed from her since the day their engagement had been announced and to her shame he has made no effort in hiding his lack of desire for her. Sophia is in a desperate hour of need and calls upon her dearest cousin the Duchess of Chentry for advise in how to catch the attentions of the man she is to wed. An Affair At The Opera: Widowed and bankrupt, Bea has entered a desperate hour in her life turning toward her only hope to provide for her two sons she is taking on the roll of a Mistress. Dressed for seduction she has arranged to meet her first protector at the Opera all the while praying that her departed husband would forgive her decision. Unfortunately nothing ever goes to plan for Bea and this night when the curtain rises a dear friendship will be tested when the dark and dangerous truth of Beas new protector is revealed.
