Snowmobile Trail Post Driver Build-It-Yourself Plans Includes Bonus Powder Coat Oven Plans A build it your self plan for the Snowmobile Trail Post Driver and multi-purpose driving tool. The only post pounder that can drive posts with the trail signs still attached The post driver has a striking plate that sits on top of the post and a slide hammer hits the striking plate. Doubles as a t-post driver and ground rod driver. The post driver is not top heavy like conventional post pounders, which consist of a simple pipe with handles. Includes a bonus plan to build your own powder coat oven for finishing the post driver. The patent pending post driver was designed for snowmobile clubs but may be cost prohibitive for clubs to purchase so a build it yourself plan was developed for clubs and do it yourselfers to build their own. Only a welder and a chop saw are needed to build. Highlights Easy to build. A complete plan. Material list. All dimensions included
