

Inspire: A Year of Daily Inspirational Thoughts

This is the fourth in a series of books for Douglas N. Petersen, where he shares inspirational messages called thoughts of the day. Each one was written in random, usually spontaneously, with no recurring theme except for focusing on personal values. The reawakening of values is important and too many times these are suppressed, and then we allow character defects dominate over our values. When we allow greed, hatred, selfishness take priority over love, service, truthfulness, we suffer, but equally important others around us suffer too. The stress that life hands us can be challenging. However, this book will help bring the joys of life into focus. These pages will reawaken your personal values so that your life will be enriched beyond measure.
