

INCONVIENT REALITY: How Big Business Shoots Us In The Foot, And How Congress And The Press Helped Get Us Into This Mess

Throughout history we have given power to those who seek it because it is easy to do so. Frequently that bestowing of power to a few comes back to haunt us. While there are many adverse behaviors discussed herein, the most flagrant of them come from politicians, virtually all of whom are indebted to the corrupting purse-strings of corporate America for their livelihood (reelection funds). It is officers and directors of the major institutions who have put themselves in a position to manipulate this country with their bribes and perks. And this achievement is accomplished without a great deal of detection, fanfare, or concern for who may be in office at any given time. Have you noticed how corporations give money to both political parties? This form of legalized graft is why nothing much changes from one Administration or one Congress to the next. Big business owns both.
