

Serving Two Masters?: Reflections on God and Profit

Serving Two Masters? provides practical insight and sound advice for anyone who has wrestled with the integration of faith and work. In 51 short essays, Bill Pollard challenges us to do far better than balance or juggle our personal, spiritual, and business imperatives. He shows us how they come together in a powerful sense of purpose. Drawn from Pollard's more than 25 years of executive experience with ServiceMaster, the reflections in Serving Two Masters? show us how despite contrary belief faith belongs in business, God and profit have a lot in common, and the bottom line shouldn't be a business's sole reason for being. In Serving Two Masters? the best-selling author of The Soul of the Firm shows that principles of faith and smart business practices are not mutually exclusive and that combining the two can actually lead to extraordinary success.
