

Field Herping Guide

The Field Herping guide contains useful information for finding snakes, lizards, turtles, and other reptiles and amphibians in the wild. The Field Herping Guide was written by professional herpetologists and includes information on the recommended tools and gear used when finding reptiles and also breaks down the various habitat and methods to find reptiles each time you are out exploring. The Field Herping Guide is a must have resource guide for anyone interested in finding reptiles in the wild. Our guide will outline the most effective methods for finding reptiles that can produce in all weather conditions both day and night. We even include a handy section on some less well known herping methods that produce hard to find reptiles day after day including road cruising, night cruising, flipping, hiking, and even placing artificial cover to find rare reptiles. Below is an overview of the Field Herping Guide:- Where and How to Find Reptiles in their natural habitat- Handling Snakes and other reptiles safely and easily- Field Herping Methods (flipping, hiking, road cruising, etc.)- Night Cruising and finding reptiles in different weather- Field Herping Gear Breakdown (Recommended tools)- Creating Artificial Habitat to attract reptiles in your area- Animals and other insects to watch out for while herping- Find More Reptiles and Amphibians Guaranteed!
